

DELIVER TO: LOCAL HANES RETAIL OUTLETS
CONTACT: Rich Noll, CEO ($10.4 million income in 2011)
336-519-8080 rich.noll@hanesbrands.com

HEY Hanes!

Garment workers in Haiti cannot survive on 225 gourdes ($5.18) a day, the new minimum wage declared by the government (in spite of your efforts -- revealed by Wikileaks -- lobbying the US State Department to pressure Haiti to keep wages even lower than that). People starve so you can pocket $1.42 BILLION PROFIT IN ONE YEAR. (for 2012/BusinessWire)

Workers at Multiwear, a factory at Sonapi Industrial Park in Port-au-Prince that produces clothing for your company, were FIRED on December 12 for demanding a minimum wage of 500 gourdes ($11.50) a day, still a measly pittance. WORKERS HAVE A RIGHT TO ORGANIZE!

Workers depend on these jobs, even if they are inadequate. Demonstrate to your consumer base that your pledge to “conduct business around the world in a highly ethical manner” is not an outright lie: tell your contracting factory, Multiwear, to IMMEDIATELY RE-HIRE THESE WORKERS and PAY A MINIMUM OF 500 GOURDES ($11.50) PER DAY.

It is YOUR RESPONSIBILITY to ENSURE THAT WORKERS’ RIGHTS ARE RESPECTED!

I'd be a lot more comfortable in this Hanes Comfort+Blend® Underwear if the workers who made it got their jobs back, and decent pay.

Facebook.com/RapidResponseNetwork

DELIVER TO: LOCAL HANES RETAIL OUTLETS
CONTACT: Rich Noll, CEO ($10.4 million income in 2011)
336-519-8080 rich.noll@hanesbrands.com

HEY Hanes!

Garment workers in Haiti cannot survive on 225 gourdes ($5.18) a day, the new minimum wage declared by the government (in spite of your efforts -- revealed by Wikileaks -- lobbying the US State Department to pressure Haiti to keep wages even lower than that). People starve so you can pocket $1.42 BILLION PROFIT IN ONE YEAR. (for 2012/BusinessWire)

Workers at Multiwear, a factory at Sonapi Industrial Park in Port-au-Prince that produces clothing for your company, were FIRED on December 12 for demanding a minimum wage of 500 gourdes ($11.50) a day, still a measly pittance. WORKERS HAVE A RIGHT TO ORGANIZE!

Workers depend on these jobs, even if they are inadequate. Demonstrate to your consumer base that your pledge to “conduct business around the world in a highly ethical manner” is not an outright lie: tell your contracting factory, Multiwear, to IMMEDIATELY RE-HIRE THESE WORKERS and PAY A MINIMUM OF 500 GOURDES ($11.50) PER DAY.

It is YOUR RESPONSIBILITY to ENSURE THAT WORKERS’ RIGHTS ARE RESPECTED!

I'd be a lot more comfortable in this Hanes Comfort+Blend® Underwear if the workers who made it got their jobs back, and decent pay.

Facebook.com/RapidResponseNetwork